KIMBERLY FALK | FRACTIONAL VP MARKETING & CMO

Strategy-led marketing leadership for the next stage of growth

I help B2B technology companies build and scale the marketing strategy, organization, and execution capabilities needed to grow. I work directly with CEOs and leadership teams to understand the business, identify the highest-value opportunities, and translate decisions into measurable action. I bring both executive-level judgment and the ability to do the work.

WHEN COMPANIES BRING ME IN

Marketing has not kept pace with growth. Product-market fit is established, but the strategy, team, or execution model needs to mature.

The GTM motion is evolving. Enterprise expansion, new markets, or product launches demand clearer positioning and coordinated execution.

The business is entering a new chapter. Funding, PE ownership, or changing growth expectations require focus and accountability.

Senior leadership is needed as a temporary or long-term engagement. An embedded executive is needed to lead and execute.

A lean team needs direction. Existing talent needs priorities, mentorship, and capabilities that can scale.

STRATEGY FIRST. AI AND LLM CAPABILITIES BY DESIGN.

Business and GTM strategy: Start with customer and market insight, positioning, growth priorities, revenue goals, and the capabilities required to execute. Build alignment before adding tools or tactics.

AI-enabled marketing architecture: Design connected workflows across systems of record, research, creation, activation, and measurement. Determine what should remain SaaS, what AI should enable, and where human judgment and governance are essential.

LLM, AEO and GEO strategy: Build discoverability and accurate brand representation in AI-generated answers, connecting positioning, content, search presence, and ongoing measurement. Prior results include top presence in all relevant AI responses and 97% positive brand sentiment in under 30 days.

HOW I WORK

Observe → Understand → Decide → Execute → Observe → Refine

Effective strategy starts with a shared understanding of the present. I turn that understanding into priorities, work alongside the team to execute, then use evidence and new information to refine the approach.
